PLANS COMPLETED FOR ALUMNI HOME-COMING

Former Wildcat Warriors Will Be Omnipresent in Gathering

STOP AT THE PHOENIX

Tomorrow comes the big event of the season, the Thanksgiving football game, and with it the gathering of old friends who fought and witnessed battles on the self-same battlefield years ago.

The famous victory over Purdue has awakened interest over all the United States. Letters have been received by the Home-Coming Committee, from nearly every alumni chapter of the country and members from nearly every chapter are expected to be present at the celebration tomorrow.

The visiting alumni of the University will be entertained at the Phoenix Hotel, the headquarters of the Home-Coming alumni. The lobby of the hotel will be decorated at one end with a large Tennessee banner and at the other with that of Kentucky. Around the railings will be the class colors of all the old classes of the University together with the pennants with the class numerals on them. More than sixty-five merchants and business men of the city will decorate their windows with the Kentucky blue and white and the Tennessee white and yellow.

Open house will begin at the Phoenix this evening and will continue until Friday. All alumni, University officials, and old students are cordially invited to be present at the headquarters at any and all times.

A smoker will be given in the ball room tonight and Friday the annual alumnae luncheon will take place.

Especial interest in the gathering of the alumni this year will be aroused by the large number of old Wildcat football warriors that are expected to be present. They will be the especial guests of honor at the game and will parade across the field just before the teams clash. Special invitations have been sent to the "K" men and it is expected that there will be in the review on the old battlefield tomorrow, at least one member from every team that has ever represented the University.

One of the largest reunions is expected of the "Immortals of '98," who hope to have more than half their twelve veterans present. Three men from this team, Charley Straus, Millard Elliott and J. D. Turner are residents of Fayette County; Roscoe Stevens and "Billy" Rease, of Eastern Kentucky; J. D. Graham, of New York City; "Mad Anthony" Wayne, of Pulaski County; W. H. Willis and Soule Smith, are expected to be here also.

A special section of the bleachers has been reserved for the visiting alumni and old students, badges for

BATTALION WILL GO TO FRANKFORT DEC. 7TH.

Cadets and Band Drill Daily For the Inaugural Parade

The cadets and band are now drilling daily in preparation for the parade at the inauguration of Governor A. O. Stanley at Frankfort, December 7. Lieutenant Underwood said that he expected 380 members of the battalion would make the trip.

In the inaugural parade of four years ago, when Governor McCreary took the oath of office, the University cadets made a much better showing than the State militia and other organizations, and their excellent appearance was freely commented on. The Commandant and all his officers are confident that the battalion's showing this year will eclipse that of 1911.

Lieutenant Underwood left Saturday for New York where he will attend the Army-Navy football game Thanksgiving, but will return in time to see that the cadets are properly whipped into shape and ready to uphold the good reputation of the military department of State University.

OFFICIAL

Thanksgiving holidays begin at the close of school today and continue until Monday. Those absent from drill either this afternoon or Monday will not be excused but will be required to make it up in squad drilling.

admission to which may be obtained at alumni headquarters.

There will be a "magnanimous" parade tomorrow morning and in the afternoon everybody, old and young, will be on hand at the game.

PROSPECTS ARE GOOD

Although student interest is focused on the big football game tomorrow with Tennessee, ere long the two basketball squads will be the all-absorbing topic of conversation around the University campus. Last week the Kernel published an incomplete schedule for the men's team, and this week can list the following games for the girls:

January 15, Logan College, at Lexington.

January 21, Kentucky Wesleyan, at Lexington.

February 5, University of Louisville, at Lexington.

February 11, K. C. W., at Lexington.

February 18, open.

February 25, University of Louisville.

TENNESSEE VOLS WILL ARRIVE TODAY FOR GAME

Wildcats in Poor Condition For Contest Because of Injuries

HOME-COMING DAY

Coach Clevenger and about 20 battle-scarred warriors of the University of Tennessee will arrive in the Blue Grass capital tonight and will appear on Stoll Field tomorrow afternoon to engage the Wildcat camp in their annual Turkey Day mix-up. The Vols will attempt to make it three straight against Kentucky, and the Blue and White team is determined to get redress for the wrongs of the past two seasons. The game will be called at 2:30 o'clock.

Many and varied reports have come from Knoxville stating that the Tennessee boys will be seriously handicapped by the heavy injured list; however, Coach Tigert, the team, and local followers are not taking much stock in this, as they believe the Vols will be as strong when they oppose Kentucky tomorrow as when they went down to Nashville for the Vanderbilt drubbing. They held Mississippi A and M. 0-14 Saturday a week ago and since then have shown steady improvement, while the Wildcats who were trained to the very minute for the Purdue victory, have shown signs of relaxation and staleness.

Simpson has been complaining of a bad cold, Thompson of a "charley horse" and Brittain has not been able to appear in a uniform for the past three or four days. The first two named will be ready for the fray, but it is still doubtful about Brittain's playing. His absence from the line would lessen the home boys' chances for victory by several points, as well as cause Coach Tigert considerable worry concerning the re-arrangement of the defense. Corn, Clayton or Heick will get the call for guard and Thompson more than likely will be called upon to fill Brittain's place on defensive end. Otherwise, the line-up will probably be as that which started against Purdue: Crutcher, left end; Server, left tackle; Dempsey, center; Simpson, right guard; Thompson, right tackle; Kelley, right end; Kline, quarterback; Grabfelder, left half; Haydon, right half, and Captain Schrader, fullback.

LITERARY SOCIETIES

The Union Literary Society held its weekly meeting Saturday evening and an interesting program was given. The feature of the meeting was a drill in parliamentary procedure given by Mr. J. H. Williams. These drills will be given frequently and all members should take advantage of them.

On account of Thanksgiving holidays, there will be no program until December 4. Members are requested to watch the bulletin board and get assignment for that date.

The Patterson Literary Society had its regular meeting Saturday evening. The entire evening was taken up in the election of officers.

The following members were elected:

President, G. C. Wilson; Vice President, E. P. Wilkerson; Secretary, R. A. Foster; Treasurer, H. L. Reed; Chaplain, M. U. Conditt; Marshall, Walter Piper; First Critic, W. C. Shinnick; Second Critic, A. B. Crawford.

There is a time-honored custom in the society to elect the out-going president to the office of janitor and in accordance with this custom, O. M. Edwards was duly elected.

RULES FOR BENNETT PRIZE ANNOUNCED*Twenty Dollars In Gold To Be Awarded For Best Essay

A prize of twenty dollars in gold, known as the "Bennett Prize," will be awarded next May, to the student of the University submitting the best essay on "The Origin and Development of Parliamentary Government," or "The Essential Conditions for the Perpetuity of Republican Institutions."

The rules governing the award are:

1. The essay shall consist of not less than 4,000 words nor more than 5,000.
2. Authorities quoted must be cited by name and page.
3. Not more than one-tenth of the matter shall consist of quotation or paraphrase.
4. It must be written in triplicate, that is, three copies.
5. It must be handed in for examination not later than April 1st.
6. The essay will be graded by a committee on a scale one hundred, and no essay falling below eighty will be considered eligible for competition.

This prize was made possible by the late Mr. Philo Bennett, of Connecticut, who at his death, gave to William Jennings Bryan $10,000 to be divided into twenty-five equal parts, one part to be given to each of twenty-five States to be selected by him, the income from which should be awarded as a prize for the best essay on one of the subjects indicated above. The money, thus set apart was to be given to the Governor of each of the States selected and by him to be handed over to a college or university selected by him for the purpose named. Mr. Bryan selected Kentucky, and sent the money left by Mr. Bennett to Governor Beckham, who named State University as the beneficiary of the fund.

The University on receipt of the money appointed President Patterson as the trustee for the Bennett Fund thus received.

(Continued from Page 1) Dickey, and Nata Lee Woodruff, all of whom have done substitute duty, have stated that they will try for positions. All of these, however, have been substitute guards and it seems that the greatest problem which will confront Coach Tigert this year will be to develop a pair of forwards. Miss Innis has done some good work at this position and may be shifted.

Indications are that the Freshmen class contains some very good material. Among those prominently mentioned are Miss Dawn Flannery, who managed the Ward-Belmont team last year; Lavinia Elliott, Margaret Matthews and Lillian Haydon, products of Lexington High School; Sarah Harbison, captain Shelbyville High School team last year, and Helen Burkholder, substitute on Vandy two years ago. There are others, yet unknown, who will surely answer the call this year as the chances to make a regular berth are indeed bright.

FOOTBALL STATISTICIAN INTERESTED IN KINNE*Work of Little Wildcat Attracts Widespread Attention

(Lexington Herald.)

Spectacular feats that have made gridiron history in Kentucky, but unfortunately have been overlooked in wider fields because of the State's neutral position on the map, will be duly chronicled this winter by no less a celebrity than Parke H. Davis, veteran Princeton football authority and widely known statistician. The athlete chosen by Mr. Davis to include in his celebrated hall of fame is Howard Irving Kinne, end and quarterback on the State University eleven.

The little Fayette County warrior has been one of the sensations of the 1915 Wildcat season. First attention was attracted to him when he played a spectacular defensive game against Mississippi A. &amp; M. When "Doc" Rodes, clever quarterback and fleet-footed open field runner was injured in the Sewanee game, Kinne was switched from end to quarter and performed with much class until Rodes was able to go back in the Purple due game.

In the game against the University of Louisville Kinne made two long open field runs, one for eighty yards and one for forty-five yards, both resulting in touchdowns and both made from scrimmage. The longer of the runs started in a play through tackle, and once started the midget was not to be denied, and so clever was his footwork that no one of his opponents got a hand on him. The shorter run was around an end.

BEAT TENNESSEE

Coach Tigert put his team through their last hard scrimmage Saturday afternoon, when "Squirrely" Tuttle's varsity aspirants, showed up entirely too well against the Vets. Since then Doctor Tigert has been giving them light signed drills, blackboard lessons and putting on the final touches for the big game.

While all of Kentucky State's supporters believe that we will even up old scores tomorrow, still they realize that over-confidence has lost many a contest, nor do they underestimate the Orange and Black team, which from what we can gather will have a line heavier at every position, except center, and a backfield of about the same weight. Kentucky's line held against the heavy offensive plungers from Purdue and broke up with marked regularity her brilliantly worked-out forward passing system. Kentucky has a few open field plays for the Vols to solve, which may cause them a large amount of worry, to say nothing of a fleet-footed backfield, and a punter who averaged in his last game practically what Mahan did against Yale last Saturday. Besides the Wildcats will never allow the new field's clean record to be marred this late in the season.

The officials will be Henry, of Kenyon, referee; Curtis Redden, of Michigan, umpire; J. A. McClure, of Ohio State, head linesman. The athletic committee is making preparation to accommodate one of the largest crowds ever collected on Stoll Field.

Certain local alumni have made arrangements with the Country Club whereby the varsity may go out after noon today and remain there until shortly before the game is called. It is highly probable that Coach Tigert will take advantage of the offer and have his men running signals on the golf links this afternoon.

Tennessee and Kentucky have met on the gridiron eleven times since 1899. Each team has won five games and a scoreless tie was played in 1907. Both teams are anxious to take the rubber game.

FOOTBALL REVIEW

Most of the teams in which Kentucky State rooters are interested took a day off last Saturday so as to be in good condition for their Thanksgiving day contest. The "Big Nine" conference teams played the final games of their season and the Harvard-Yale fiasco was staged but outside of these games there was little of interest.

The pep, which Tom Shelvin injected into the Yale warriors, causing them to defeat the Princeton favorites last week, had apparently lost its effect before the contest with the Crimson and the Haughton machine rode over the helpless Yale team to the extent of 41 to 0, the second largest score which has been made in the forty some years that Harvard and Yale have been playing against each other. Mahan closed his career as a Harvard football artist by a performance little short of phenomenal.

On Friday, Transylvania defeated Georgetown at Georgetown, by a score of 14 to 6, in a game played in the rain on a muddy, slippery field. The game was hard fought and the greater playing powers of the T. U. team won out, as a result of which Transylvania supporters are claiming the K. I. A. A. title. On Thanksgiving day they meet the University of Louisville team at Louisville. Louisville is a member of the K. I. A. A., but T. U. men do not expect to have any trouble in outpointing this "inferior" team. Kentucky State men hope (?) they will not be disappointed.

Illinois and Minnesota remain tied for the championship of the Western Conference. These teams apparently outclass all others in the Conference and played to a 6 to 6 tie earlier in the season, leaving the championship undecided. The Illini boys made 10 points against Chicago's nix, and Minnesota downed Wisconsin 28 to 0 in Saturday's contests. Purdue maintained her right to the State championship of Indiana, by defeating her pet rival, Indiana State, by a score of 7 to 0. Our friend, Mr. Pultz, who figured in Kentucky's score against the Purdue team, redeemed himself Saturday by carrying the ball across for the touchdown that beat Indiana.

Although the Eastern, the Southern and the Middle Western championships have practically been decided, college students and alumni of all parts of the country are looking forward to the Turkey Day contests with much interest when many old-time rivals meet then to fight out the annual question of supremacy. A list of the more important battles will be found elsewhere in The Kernel.

SURE SIGN OF THE COMING OF HOLIDAYS.

George's promotion to a position of authority and responsibility has not apparently affected his fondness for turkey and the approach of the Thanksgiving holiday finds the namesake of "the father of his country" again circulating his petition and extracting contributions from the students and members of the faculty with an efficiency that one has to admire. His "Hold on, heah," and "you haven't got yo' name down heah," are irresistible, when he also has a firm grip on the victim's sleeve.

Newcomers at the University are notified that they are expected to come across, if for no other reason than self-protection. No one will ever miss the nickel or dime he is expected to give and in this way he can help to provide the turkey and "trimmings" for George and all the little Georges,

7-0 SCORE A "BITTER DEFEAT" TO PURDUE

A copy of The Purdue Exponent of the date of November 14 has been received containing the story of the Kentucky-Purdue game. While it is manifest that the defeat was a big surprise to Purdue students, yet there is no attempt made to offer an alibi except the poor condition of several of the players. In an editorial headed "7 to 0," The Exponent says:

"It was a bitter defeat. Loss to a team that was acknowledged to be our equal but not our peer of necessity bears its sting. That the Purdue men fought gamely is a foregone conclusion, for every spectator that witnessed the Iowa game knows the sort of invincible spirit possessed by our players.

"The Boilermakers fight best when forced into a corner. Somehow, it takes the bitterness of defeat to form those heroic natures that are now in ascendancy in the world."

The paragraph column contains the following comment:

"When our team does its very best can we rightly expect more?"

The same issue also contains under the heading, "Who's Who Among Purdue Men," a very complimentary article on Dean F. Paul Anderson, of the College of Mechanical and Electrical Engineering and a Purdue alumnus.

KITTEENS LEAVE TO PLAY FRESH. VOLLS

The young Cats will leave tonight for Knoxville to engage the Freshman Vols tomorrow while the two varsities are battling on Stoll Field. This year's Kitten team has not been given the opportunity to display its real worth as did the famous 1914 point-a-minute eleven, though by many they are believed to be equally as good. In the few games they have played they have vanquished their opponents with apparent ease and have done some good work against the varsity. Only a double victory will satisfy the Kentucky supporters.

The line-up will probably be the same as at Georgetown, although some changes may be made. At Georgetown they lined-up as follows:

for which the University's "butler" is thankful each year.

Welcome, Alumni.

It is the rare privilege of the University to welcome back for the Thanksgiving game the alumni, who are holding their first annual Homecoming celebration. It is truly a pleasure to have them with us and it is with a feeling of not unwarranted pride that the school can offer for their approval the football team of the vintage of 1915, which the old grade have come many miles to see perform on Stoll Field tomorrow. Whether the Wildcats or the Volunteers will win the game we will know tomorrow; already we know that State has a team this year that has done credit to the University and has covered itself with glory.

Within the past few years we have seen, not a revival or rejuvenation of alumni spirit, but a practical application made of that spirit, which must be inherent in anyone who has ever attended Old State but which may have been lying dormant.

The alumni are taking a greater interest in the school, they are attending reunions, they are beginning to remember the debt they owe to the institution at which they received their education, and plans are on foot, so we are told, by means of which the alumni can materially assist the University on its forward path to better things.

We, who are yet students, and you, who have passed out into the great Unknown, should welcome this change as one of the indications of the fact that a new day has dawned for our Alma Mater.

Students, let us unite to show the returning alumni that we welcome them again to Kentucky State. Let us demonstrate by our cordial greetings, by our attendance at the football game and by our "rooting" for the team that the spirit and enthusiasm of the members of the classes of '16 to '19 cannot be surpassed by that of the classes of the years before 1915.

A final word to you, alumni. Those of you who have not kept in touch with what has transpired at Kentucky State will find a greatly changed institution from that which you knew in the "good old days." We are justly proud of the fact that marked progress has been made along every line. Not many years ago charges of corruption in the handling of funds, in the management of athletics were openly made or darkly hinted at. Whether they were true we know not nor do we care. What we are interested in is the fact that those days are past, and our school is freer from suspicion of this sort than any in the State. The moral tone of the student body is higher; things which are for the good of the school are more often encouraged; our faculty is more efficient and our athletics are entirely free from the taint of professionalism or ineligibility. Whether these conditions obtained in the past we do not know; we do know they are the conditions now.

We welcome you, alumni; may we see Home-coming Day made an annual event.

A Lack of Patriotism.

It has been frequently commented, both by outsiders and by persons within our ranks, that there is a noticeable lack of patriotism shown by the students of the University of Kentucky.

When the colors pass there seems to be, on the part of many, no inclination whatever to salute, and the playing of the National anthem very often causes no more stir than the playing of "Tipperary" or any other popular air might.

Upon a recent occasion a student who failed to salute the flag and was asked by an officer whether or not he cared anything for his country replied that he cared not a rap for either his country or his flag.

We marvel that such a benighted individual ever found his way to the doors of a university.

It takes, perhaps, a little effort to salute the Stars and Stripes and to rise to "The Star Spangled Banner," but such an effort seems well worth while to the real citizen who needs must be a lover of his country.

HERE AND THERE

How to Cook a Husband.
A good many husbands are entirely spoiled by mismanagement in cooking, and are not so tender and good. Some women keep them constantly in hot water; others freeze them; others put them in a stew; others roast them; and others always keep them in a pickle. It cannot be supposed that any husband will be good and tender if managed in this way; but really they are delicious when properly treated.

In selecting a husband you should not be guided by the silvery appearance, as in buying mackerel, nor by the golden tint as if you wanted salmon. Be sure to select him yourself, as tastes differ. Do not go to the market for him, as those brought to the door are always best.

It is far better to have none than not to learn to cook him properly. See that the linen in which he is wrapped is white and nicely mended, with the required number of buttons and strings. Don't keep him in the kettle by force, as he will stay there himself if properly cared for. If he sputters and fizz, do not be anxious. Some husbands do this. A little spice improves them, but must be added with judgment.

Do not try him with anything sharp to see if he is becoming tender. Stir him gently the while, lest he stay too long in the kettle and become flat and tasteless. If thus treated, you will find him very digestible, agreeing nicely with you, and he will keep as long as you want.—The Crimson Rambler.

Snakes Say:

The way of the transgressor, as a general rule, is to plead not guilty.

Truth crushed to the earth, has a peculiar way of rising again and kicking the stuffing out of the consummate liar.

The government should require a stamp on some men's stomachs from the quantity of booze they consume.

Women are all right in every way, but you must remember that they are only a side-issue.

A turtle may be slow, but he usually gets there in time for the soup.—Miami Student.

JIM PARK TO REFEREE GAME AT HENDERSON

James Park, assistant coach of the Wildcats, will go to Henderson Thanksgiving Day to referee the championship football game of Western Kentucky between Owensboro and Henderson. "Jim" has expressed a regret in not being able to see Tennessee and State fight it out, but says there is no doubt that the Wildcats will cop the long end of the contest.

Paul Gasser, of the Journalism Department, will go to Henderson to "cover" the Owensboro-Henderson football game for the Owensboro Inquirer.

MR. MATTICE SPEAKS AT MECHANICAL HALL

Mr. Royal Mattice, a representative of the American Steel & Wire Company, delivered a lecture to the Junior class and several members of the faculty at Mechanical Hall Monday morning. The talk was interesting and instructive, being presented from a historical as well as engineering standpoint.

Mr. Mattice gave an account of road building from the year 45 B. C. to the present date, telling of the difficulties with which the ancients had to contend and how they are met by the modern engineer. The adoption of steel woven wire as the reinforcing element in concrete roads and superstructures and its advantages over the round or square twisted bar, was the main engineering feature brought forth, including many of the finer requirements necessary for correct design.

Edison-Joule Society.

The Edison-Joule Society met Wednesday morning, November 17. The society voted on and approved several amendments to the constitution. One of the members suggested that the society subscribe for some technical magazine. This plan was discussed and it was decided that a committee should order the magazines and that they should be used first by those on the program and then left in the library for the use of the rest of the society.

Big Success.

The Get-Together held Saturday night by the students and faculty of Mechanical Engineering was a decided success.

After a simple feast so well provided by Mr. Geo. R. Smith, a series of entertaining toasts were responded to by members of the faculty and a representative of each society.

Dean Anderson, Professor Freeman, Professor Frankel and Professor Cassidy gave talks that were fraught with optimism and thoughts calculated to imbue in the Mechanicals a pride in their work and endeavors, and an enthusiasm that has always been characteristic of students of that college.

Excellent talks were made by the society representatives, each one being distinctive and forceful and indicative of the great good that has come out of the idea of having an engineering society in each class.

Watt Engineering.

The regular meeting of the Watt Engineering Society was held in Professor Freeman's room on Friday, November 19.

Mr. R. S. Clark made a very interesting and instructive talk on "The Jitney Problem," in which he outlined the growth of the jitney business and gave some of the methods used by the city railway companies in fighting this competition.

Short, impromptu talks were made by L. C. McClellan, H. P. Horine and M. M. Montgomery.

The next regular meeting of the society will be held December 3.

STATE STUDENTS HAVE PARTS IN AMATEUR PLAY

"A Democratic Mother" To Be Given at Opera House Tonight

The cast of "A Democratic Mother," a play which has been dramatized by Edward Saxon, of this city, from the book of the same name by Mrs. William Craig, also of Lexington, which will be presented at the Lexington Opera House tonight, includes a number of University students. Eight of the fifteen parts of the play are taken by Kentucky State students.

The juvenile lead will be carried by G. Waverly Briggs, an amateur of some experience, who won the first prize in the "Amateur Night" program staged by the Strollers recently. Emery Frazier, who scored a hit in the Stroller production of "Charley's Aunt" last year in the part of Sir Francis Chesney, has an opportunity in this play to show his ability in a more dramatic role, as he carries the heavy lead. Miss Virginia Stout, who appeared in the Philosophian play last year and is well-known for her dialect readings, plays opposite Mr. Frazier, in a part that requires some ability to handle.

J. N. Farmer, a law student, has the part of Mr. Ridley Barnes, whose wife is the "Democratic Mother," and a hit is sure to be scored by Willie Lee Smith, as Felix Foster, a part which just suits Mr. Smith, as Felix is "fat but not jazzy."

Miss Johnnie Cramer, who played the part of Mrs. Primley Dalzelle, in "The College Widow," presented by the Strollers two years ago, with such finish is cast in the present performance for the part of Mrs. Trueman. The part of James, a servant, is taken by Estill Woods, also a Stroller. Miss Mary Sayre Williams, a special student at the University appears in the reception scene.

CO-ED CORNER

Clark-Smith.

Announcement has been made of the wedding of George R. Smith, of the University, and Miss Ella M. Clark, of Buena Vista, Garrard County, which will take place Saturday, November 27, at the home of the bride's parents, Mr. and Mrs. J. W. Clark, of Buena Vista. Clarence Clarke, Jerome Durham and Estill Woods will accompany Mr. Smith to Buena Vista.

The announcement comes as a surprise to State students, as nothing was known of the approaching event until a few days ago. "George R." is known by everyone in the University and has made an admirable record during his stay here. He was president of the 1916 class during its Freshman year, is holder of the heavyweight boxing championship, a Varsity football man, and holds many other honors. He outran his classmates and graduated last year from the Law School. Since that time he has been practicing law in this city. He has also had charge of State Hall this year and has made a success of the University cafeteria.

Miss Clark, judging from her pictures, is quite pretty, and "George R." says she is attractive and "right there."

Mr. and Mrs. Smith will reside in this city in a pretty home which has been prepared on Linden Walk.

The Cadet Hop, given by the battalion of cadets in the Armory Saturday afternoon, was a most enjoyable informal affair. Miss Mary G. Fisher, and Lieutenant and Mrs. Underwood were the chaperones.

Epsilon chapter of Alpha Gamma Delta sorority entertained with a tea in honor of their National President, Mrs. Slocumb, Monday afternoon from 1 to 6, at the home of Miss Inez Gillis.

The guests were the active members and pledges of the other sororities in the University who heard Mrs. Slocumb talk on questions of Pan-Hellenic interest.

Refreshments of tea and sandwiches were served during the afternoon.

Mr. and Mrs. Charles L. Jennings, of Shelbyville, announce the engagement of their daughter, Verna, to Professor John Edward Robertson, of the Agricultural College of Mississippi.

Professor Robertson was graduated from State University in the class of 1912, and many of his old friends here congratulate him on his latest success.

The Alumni Club of the University will be hosts at a smoker and rally of all old students, at the Phoenix, Wednesday evening.

The Phoenix Hotel will have a special Thanksgiving dance after the football game from 4:30 to 6:30, in honor of the Home-coming of the Alumni of State University.

Miss Eloise Ginn, class of '12, and for some years employed at the Experiment Station, is at present teaching English and algebra in Paige Seminary, Los Angeles, Cal., where she is residing temporarily until she is given a try-out with Essanay Motion Picture Company. Miss Ginn was a prominent Stroller when in college, and from the high class of her work in University dramatics, is expected to make good in the movies.

DANCING CLASS FOR YOUNG LADIES

Y. W. C. A.

The Y. W. C. A. will hold a Thanksgiving service Thursday morning at 9 o'clock.

Each member of the association is urged to be present.

At the meeting of the Y. W. C. A. Sunday evening the following program was given:

"Money-giving," Eryl Richmond.
"Time-giving," Linda Purnell.
"Self-giving," Louise Daugherty.
"Joy-giving," Vivian DeLaine.

Miss Mary E. Sweeny, head of the Home Economics Department, was hostess at a tea in honor of Mrs. Morris Bartlett, president of the Kentucky Federated Women's Clubs, Thursday afternoon.
